

Jonathan D. Moreno, Ph.D., Emily Davie and Joseph S. Kornfeld Professor of Biomedical Ethics,
University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Virginia.

Dr. Moreno is a trained philosopher who would bring valuable insight and experience to the National Human Research Protections Advisory Committee. At the University of Virginia, he directs one of the nation's largest bioethics centers. He is also a senior consultant to the National Bioethics Advisory Commission, Senior Research Fellow at the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University, a Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine, and an Adjunct Associate of the Hastings Center. During 1994-1995, Dr. Moreno was Senior Policy and Research Analyst for the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments. In the spring of 1998, he was a Special Expert in the Department of Clinical Bioethics at the Warren Magnuson Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health. He has testified before the United States House of Representatives on several occasions and has lectured in Europe and South America. He has been widely sought as an advisor or consultant for government agencies and private organizations, including: NIH, NAS/IOM, DOE, DED, NY State AIDS Institute, American Psychiatric Association, American Association of Blood Banks, and the American Society of Therapeutic Radiation Oncology. Dr. Moreno has published extensively (over 150) in peer-reviewed journals and book chapters. He has written several books on topics quite appropriate to NHRPAC's charge.
